Prior to IOS 12.0, Cisco was compliant with the then-current RFC 1583. As of IOS 12.0, Cisco changed the behavior of OSPF to be compliant with the new standard, RFC 2328. This situation created the possibility of sub-optimal routing if all of the ABRs in an area were not upgraded to the new code at the same time.

EGP is the abbreviation of Exterior Gateway Protocol. In the first place there was only one protocol, EGP, as an EGP (again). But after years it retired and now BGP (Border Gateway Protocol) is the only EGP.. IGPs give us the ability to route the traffic within an Autonomous System. But EGP allow us to route between AS (Autonomous System)s. Because of the fact that BGP (Border Gateway Protocol) is ...

I recently completed a design and lab scenario that uses Cisco DMVPN as a backup to a primary MPLS WAN (I'm still planning the implementation). This design, combined with the requirements for multiple (more than two) hubs and the use of BGP in a single DMVPN cloud, was difficult to find neatly packaged on the Internet.
